HEFFRON OPENS THE DOOR TO LAKEFRONT LIVING

The Water's Edge subdivision by Heffron Homes offers lakefront living, panoramic views and rural ambience, so generous use of windows and doors is a natural choice. Located near the riverfront towns of Sauk City and Prairie du Sac, this new community features stand-alone and attached single-family condominium homes in Traditional and transitional Craftsman styles. Carefully chosen window and door combinations maximize the views from inside and out.

For the Traditional style homes Marvin Integrity double-hung windows were mixed with Marvin doors and round-tops. Windows throughout the home, as well as the eight-foot high balcony doors, feature interior grilles. To emphasize lake views, Kelly Hellickson from Window Design Center combined direct set picture units, which allowed for the largest possible daylight opening, with standard double-hungs on both sides. Custom mulling was created by Window Design Center's service technicians Jody Lindsey and Tom Felix, to assure perfect fit and trim components.

Dan Heffron, Jr. considers Integrity by Marvin to be a "best kept secret." He appreciates the two-week lead time, standard stock sizes, and the ability to purchase quality wood/ultrax windows at a high-end vinyl price. He points out that combining Integrity and Marvin products is a great way to expand your options.

When homeowners nearby wanted a special entry door, Heffron turned to Window Design Center for the Jeld-Wen IWP line. The elegant solid cherry door has a distinctive wheat finish, and features a clean Craftsman style. IWP custom-built the entry system to match drawings done by the homeowners and independent designer Kim Donovan. The dramatic entry system has frosted glass in the door itself for privacy, and clear glass on the sidelights and transoms. As with all IWP orders, slabs were pre hung in the intricate jamb system by Window Design Center prior to delivery.

Heffron Homes' well-chosen windows and doors demonstrate their commitment to design and homeowners' comfort.

EFFICIENCY AND STYLE COMBINE IN NEW SHOREWOOD HOME

Claire and George Box began the process of building their new home with a strong commitment to sustainable building practices, and chose Associated Housewrights as their builders based on a shared philosophy.

Associated Housewrights primarily concentrates on additions and remodeling, but partners Richard Porst, Scott Shimanski and Matt Speer were pleased to take on this special project. All major decisions about the new home were guided by green building principles. The end result is a home that qualified for more than twice the number of points required to earn certification as a Green Built Home™.

front door carefully fitted into one lower quadrant. The lines of the SDL element spanning the front door are matched to the circular outline. Frosted and clear glass panes were carefully positioned for privacy. Clay Canyon red and Caramel beige exterior colors were selected from Eagle's broad range of standard colors and paired for a striking effect.

Eagle Window and Door products from Window Design Center were chosen. Working with Charlie Branchaw, Speer designed special SDL elements for the front entrance and a kitchen window. The entrance features a large circular window system with the
