

TIMBERED HOME FEATURES MARVIN WINDOWS

THE VIEW FROM HERE

We enlarged our showroom again. With so many exciting window and door products available, we continue to expand the options on display. Think of our showroom as your window and door showroom; this is a place where you can meet your clients to demonstrate and discuss the window and door options for their project.

We showcase the full line of Marvin Window and Door products you would expect from a Marvin Dealer Direct supplier. We also offer a wide variety of wood, clad and vinyl brands, interior and exterior doors from standard to custom, hardware, and garage doors.

As a building professional you wear many hats and may find yourself short for time, or needing information in a hurry. We go the extra mile, providing site visits, samples, on-site mulling, and more. Have a question? When you're working with Window Design Center you'll have an answer from a window pro.

The rolling hills and deep valleys adjacent to Governor Dodge State Park form the setting for this stunning timber-frame home that features Marvin Window products. This distinctive home was designed to take full advantage of the view, and includes special solar-reducing glass on the south facade. A great room, dining area, breakfast nook, and sitting area all boast expansive windows that were carefully designed and selected in consultation with Window Design Center, the builder, the customers, and the timber-frame provider. A unique triangular transom with simulated divided lites mirrors the gable-end design created by triangular windows.

The general contractor for the home was Tim Marr, owner of Traditional Carpentry in Mineral Point. He worked with Pine Ridge Timberframe of London, Ontario, for this unique home. Craig Patchin of Window Design Center helped design the Marvin Windows and Doors, including casements, polygons, and stationary windows in various combinations. In addition, a unique large oval window was designed and created to nestle into the hewn beams in the master bathroom.

SOLUTIONS: Prow-shaped wall of windows transforms 60's ranch

Situated with the Pheasant Branch Wildlife Conservancy as a backyard, this ranch home has been lovingly remade into a woodland dream home through three remodeling stages. Earlier phases included a two-story addition to create a family room and three-season room, and a garage extension. During those phases windows throughout the 45-year-old home were removed and upgraded to Marvin.

The third phase of the project took advantage of the scenic setting by placing a master bedroom suite in a windowed prow overlooking the backyard. Polygon windows were fitted together to fill the wall up to the gable with windows. Window Design Center's Tom Felix helped field-mull some of the units that were too large to ship. The multiple assembly units were matched to the rest of the home's Marvin windows, with bronze exterior clad brick mold, and an interior stain.

Wade and Wynn Davies appreciate Chas Vaughan's ability to work with a variety of clients. "I work with Chas because I like him, but also because his adaptability makes him an asset to our company. We have a lot of repeat business, and at Window Design Center every detail is kept on file, so when I call Chas the next time, I can be sure everything matches. Plus, they have lots of options, so I know I can find the products I need."
